Release Date: 5 January 1945 (USA)

https://archive.org/search.php?query=Monty%20Woolley Woolley was a rarity in his day, an openly-gay man in a long-term relationship with his black valet. He had been a professor of drama at Yale, then parlayed it into a successful Hollywood career in such films as The Man Who Came To Dinner and The Bishop's Wife, and later in radio's The Magnificent Montague as a ham Shakespearean who stars in a treacly soap opera.

https://archive.org/search.php?query=Franklin%20Pangborn Pangborn was an in-demand character actor from the 1930's-50's. A vet of WWI, he was also relatively out of the closet in Hollywood, his roles primarily of the fussy or nelly variety. Memorable as the scavenger hunt host in My Man Godfrey https://archive.org/details/my_man_godfrey and in several Preston Sturges films.
